Title: Seeing Poland and Vilnius – The architecture, the streets, the nature, and the People, A 16 days journey through my new lenses.

Summary: I recently spent 16 days traveling from southern Poland all the way north to Vilnius, Lithuania. Any misconceptions I had about the region being underdeveloped were instantly shattered. Instead, I was left utterly speechless by Krakow's vibrant main square, Gdansk's colorful Royal Way, Warsaw's lively Old Town, Tatra National Park's breathtaking peaks and valleys, and the seamless blend of history and modern independence in Vilnius. I only wish I could stay longer to chase their sunrise and sunset.

About me: My name is Rong Yao. I am a retired Ford engineer. I love traveling and capturing what I see along the way. For the past couple of years, I've been practicing smartphone photography, and I am now learning how to use cameras to take my picture quality to the next level. Both traveling and photography have been a fun and rewarding journey so far.
